Ganesha & Laxmi on one panel have under them goldsmiths and silversmiths; while on the second panel, Kubera and Vishvakarma, the Gods of material wealth and workmanship respectively, are accompanied by artisans, textile weavers and potters below them. The third and fourth panel are a depiction of trade and geography. While one panel depicts an old map of India tracing the sea trade with Vasco da Gama coming in on a ship, bestowing gifts to Indian kings and prices; the corresponding fourth panel routes land trade through the Khyber Pass.
